LONG IT WILL WAVE.

If vigorous arm-sawing, foot-stamping, rociferation and other forms of mass-meeting oratory were needed to assert the rightful pre-aminence in this city and country of the glorious star-spangled banner, the patriotic outhurst in Cooper Union last night would do the business. The cold fact is, however, as one of the speakers admitted, that "no insult has been cast upon the American flag." The very n who cherish a sentimental regard for the symbol of a lost Irish liberty would be smong the first to fight for the flag of the free, as they were in 1861.

But an excess of patriotism is vastly better than a lack of it. The flag of the country is the flag of all, for all. Long shall it wave!

The Arcade Railway Company claims to be ready to begin operations in building a four-track railway under Broadway from the Sattery to Fifty-ninth street, and thence to the Harlem River.

It proposes to put up $5,000,000 indemnity for any incidental damage to property, though its engineers say there will be none. Such a road as this, with two tracks for way and two for through trains, is what the city needs. But the charter should have better safeguards for protecting public rights and private interests than these franchises have usually contained.

POOR PRITZ.

Despite all the diplomatic caution and professional concealments that have surrounded Emperor FREDERICK's case, it is painfully evident that there has been no check to the progressive nature of his disease.

He is left weaker by every " bad turn," and is now unable to walk.

THE VOICE OF THE WORKERS.

The petition secured by THE EVENTRO WonLp asking the Governor to withhold his approval from the bankers' bill to cut off two-thirds of the holidays, goes to Albany

Its size, and the spontaneous character of the protest, prove that the toilers know what they want, and are in earnest in asking for it. Let the Governor weigh the words of one of the petitioners: "I am just as tired after a hard week's work in winter as I am after a hard week's work in summer."

The gallant man who will "do anything to oblige a lady," was never more accommodating, even in comedy plays, than was SCHUYLER STYMUS, who yesterday pleaded guilty to bigamy. He had a wife of only four months' standing, but married another girl to shield her reputation and accommor before. Judge GILDERSLEEVE characterised SCHUYLER as "the most accommodating man he had ever heard of."

TWELVE LANDLORDS ON THE JURY.

They Were Worth $50,000 Each, and De cided for the Tenant.

Patrick McConville, who has a saloon at Hudson and Laight streets, made a verbal agreement with his landtord this year by which he was to have the place for another year. Then the landlord sold the building a man named Tillerson, who notified McConville to leave by May 1. McConville declined to go and Tillerson brought suit to eject him.

The case came up for trial in the First District Civil Court yesterday. Lawyer Lynn, counsel for the defendant, asked that a jury of twelve men be summoned.

Justice Norton granted the request and twelve landerds, all of whom were worth more than $50.000, were put into the box.

After the evidence had been heard the jury brought in a verdict for the defendant.

It is the first time in more than six years that a regular jury has been summoned in this court.

Mme. Romero, the wife of the Mexican Minister at Washington, is said to have no superior among the ladies of the capital as an entertainer. She was one of the first ladies of the diplomatic corps to remove the barriers of exclusiveness that hedged in that circle, and invitations to her receptions are always greatly in demand. Mme. Romero is a daughter of an old Virginia family and is a fluent converser in English and Spanish.

Mrs. Ingalis, the wife of the Senator from Kansas, is a woman of about forty-five, but is remarkably young looking and active. She was a Miss Cheeseborough and traces her lineage back to a Puritan abcestor who settled in Boston in 1630, when the colony there was established. Sae is a lady of medium stature, well-rounded form, and her manner is replete with energy, grace and vivacity. During the past winter she was the leading spirit in the Grand Army entertainments in Washington.

One of the most grotesque residences in the Juited States, the famous "Cracker Castle," in St. Louis, is soon to be torn down. The building has been a mounment to the folly of Charles Pierce, who built it at a cost of $75,000 out of the fortune he made in furnishing the Government with hardack in war times. There is not a comfortable room in the castle. It has long been an object of dicule. Its next owner after Mr. Pierce was F. C. Sharp, who bought it for $50,000 and sold it for $14,000. It is related that a stranger once saked Mr. Sharp, " What fool built that house?" "Oh," replied Mr. Sharp, "I live there."

WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR THE EVENING WORLD. HASTILY got her completely between put my arms one on each side of her, holding the sides of the ladder as tightly as I could. I pressed against her closely and kept her as fast as I could. I was afraid against her closely and that in her suasmodic struggles she would break away from me and drop to the ground. So there we were in midair-she having her fit and I trying to keep her from dropping to the ground. It was anything but agreeable. She was not a light woman and could not help to keep herself on the ladder at all. Moreover, she was struggling in the violent movements which the fit occasioned her.

I held on and kept pressing tightly against her. But I soon got tired. I do not suppose the fit lasted more than five minutes. But it seemed a good deal longer than that, and I was beggining to think what I could do in case she should keep it up long enough to exhaust me. This would not have had to be so very long with her dead weight on me and her convulsive workings threatening to throw her down to the street below. It was a considerable strain.

It may seem comical to picture the thing. A woman having a fit on a ladder when a fireman was helping her to escape from a burning building is incongruous enough. What more inconvenient place could she select or what worse time?

None that I can think of unless it would be in the arms of Blondin crossing Niagara on a tight-rope. That would be worse. I

I PASSED HER ARMS OVER MY SHOULDERS. To my great satisfaction the flerce twitch ing and kicking of her legs began to grow less. She quieted down and finally came to herself again. But the attack had weakened her. It had been a drain on her strength, and after it was over she was so worn out that it was impossible for her to assist herself in getting down even to the slight degree she did in the beginning, when she could do some of the things I told her.

One of the firemen came to my help. I passed her arms over my shoulders and held them tightly while he grasped her behind me and steadied her as we slowly worked

It was a comfort to plant one's foot on terra if she did fall it would not do her any great injury. I took her husband and herself to the station-house to rest a little after the excitement before they went anywhere.

She did not have another fit. It would have been a great convenience if she could have put off the one which she did have for apout five minutes, instead of having it on the ladder. But, of course, it was not a matter of choice with the poor woman. This was my only experience of this sort of thing, and I am not anxious to have another. I often used to think of it when I was helping some woman down the ladder, and hoped she wouldn't take it into her head to get a spasm till we got to the ground. Fortunately none of them ever have. The good woman was duly grateful for being helped and seemed sorry to have been so much more trouble than could have been expected. Very often persons that have been rescued from burning buildings regard all that a fireman has done as something that doesn't call for any feeling of gratitude from them. They argue that the firemen are paid for this and that it is a part of their profession. This view is not the most pleasing one to those who have rescued them. Of course, a fireman is engaged and paid for putting out fires and doing such things as are incident-ally connected therewith; but after all it seems as if he were entitled to a little more credit for bringing a human being out of flames and smoke to safety than a hodman is for taking a load down a ladder.

JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT.

The Best Nutritive Tonic -FOR-

Impaired Digestion, Maloutrition in Conva-lescence, Pulmounty and Throat Disenses. A SOVEREIGN REMEDY For the Weak and Debilitated.

Indorsed by all Physicians throughout the Civilized World. PROF. PIETRA SANTA, OF PARIS, the world-renowned speciainst on pulmonary dis-cases, in his work published in Parls, speaks of the JOHANN HOFF MALT EXTRACT as follows: JOHANN HOFF MALT EXTRACT as follows:

"I can highly recommend this pleasant remedy in restoring weakened digestion. As a large number of patients lack the necessary power to digest solit food, and would, through the use of stimulants, be merely excited and weakened, therefore I regard it of homense value to the Practitioner to bring to his aid, a pleasant remedy like the GEN-UNE JOHANN HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT, which will set not only as a tonic but as a nutritive as well, and which is less exciting than wine as a stimulant."

JOHANN HOFF. BERLIN, PARIS, VIENNA. New York, No. 6 Barclay St. Beware of Fraudulent Imitations. — The GENUINE has the signature of "Johann Hoff" on the neck, and comes in flat squarty bottles with ... German label thereon.

When arrangued before United States Commissioner States they pleaded not guity and were held under $2,000 bonds each. During the examination Stewart jumped from a second-story window and attempted to escape, but the officers caught him. Both are now in the county jail here, unable to give bonds.

The affairs of the Post-Office are in bad shape, and crookedness being suspected at Washington, linspector Stuart was sent here yesterday sudfound a $1,200 shortage. Stewart is a young man who a year ago had brilliant prospects. He came here from Marquette as justiner in a branch of a large hardware establishment, was soon appointed Posimaster and, though a Democrat, was elected County Treasurer. He was bounced from his firm months ago, and is a wreck from the use of liquor. It is not yet known how his accounts stand as treasurer.

He Paid With a Worthless Check. George A. Romer, a young lawyer of Buffalo, was arrested yesterday for issuing a worthless check, on the complaint of Jay H. Clark, manage of the Grosvenor Hotel. About six weeks ago, of the Grosvenor Hotel. About six weeks ago, Romer, while living at the Grosvenor, tendered a creek drawn on the irving National Bank for $19.50 in payment for room went. The check was returned with the information that Romer had no account there. When controlled with the check Romer asked Mr. Clark to hold it for another day, when he would make it all right. He then left the hotel without notifying the manager and was not seen or heard from until yesterday. Mr. Clark saw him in the sation under the Stewart Building and called in Policeman Marchester, of the Broadway aquad, who took Romer into custody. At the Elizabeth street station he a imitted that he issued the check and was locked up.
